Dear Daddy:

Yesterday I bought a picture of our delegation in the Delta Alpha parade. Its not so hot because you can't see the part that really meant something, the can with the Harvard and Yale banners hanging out. However, I have a conspicuous place, so I thought perhaps you would like to have it.

I do hope Betty is getting better. I sent her a letter the other ^{day}. I suppose some one will have to read it to her, and I feel sorry for them, but I thought Betty would rather have a hand written letter done on Dartmouth stationery than a type-written one.

I also sent a letter to Miss Thomas telling her about the English placement test. While I was writing it the darn typewriter went flooy - it would skip two or three spaces almost every time you printed a letter. I had to take the front off, and then I saw that the screws that hold the spacing apparatus against the carriage were so loose that they were not holding it tightly and were allowing it to skip two or three spaces every time. I tightened up the screws and went on with the letter.

I think that I gave a brief idea of my courses in my letter to Janie, but so you can know everything about the schedule I will put a full outline on the next page.

I think you will see from this that I have been very careful in spending money. Bob and I divide up the cost of everything we can and thus save a lot of money. Well, I hope that all you folks at home are well. Give my love to all the dear people that wish me well. Remember me to the fellows at the store. Tell them I wrapped up three articles together and only had two loose ends.

With love,
