Sunday afternoon

Dear Mother:-

I got your letter yesterday and am very glad to hear that the folks arrived from Florida all right. It is too bad Uncle Charlie is not so well; perhaps being home again will help his nerves.

I am very anxious to see them all, and I suppose that they won't run away from me either.

I seem to have mixed you up a little on the time I am coming home; it is the 14th I am arriving, and the 16th I go to work. I am surprised to hear that Walton had gone away already, as he said in a letter I had from him that he was starting the 15th, and that that was why he wanted me there for the 16th. Of the four exams left the next is history Tuesday, and I am going to start studying for it as soon as I finish this letter. So far I have been reading a French book - "Cinq Mars" by De Vigny - and writing a report on it in French, of course. I just completed it a few minutes ago. After the history exam I expect to spend the next two days studying poly sci, the next after that on French, and on Saturday I have the French exam. Sunday I will get ready for Chemistry and take the exam at three o'clock Monday. Tuesday at eight is the poly sci exam, and then I will start home. Just when I am going to pack the trunk and all the other things is more than I can say, but I suppose they will have to come in somewhere.

I saw Eddy the other day and he asked when I was going home. He is going at the same time and we are making arrangements to come together for a change. I think his other friends are all coming at other times, and I know that Cy Fulton is very sick in Dick's House. He has some severe form of arthrit^{is} (or however it is spelled) and Eddy says he will be in the hospital for eight more weeks before he can even go home. His Mother is here with him.

Eddy and I will arrive together on the usual 11:55 train to Columbus. We are going to wait in Albany for the Southwestern and thus be sure of getting on the train, as there is about an hour's wait in Cleveland instead of the ten minutes we usually have. I don't think it will cost any more that way, as we will not have any Pullman between Greenfield and Albany. Just to be sure, I will repeat, 11:55 Wednesday June 14 in Columbus. You and Mrs. Williams can come together, along with any of the other folks who want to come. And now I must mention the things I always hate to speak of and you hate to hear: money. I have plenty for my regular expenses up to the end of the year, but not enough for R.R. fare. In fact, I ought to be about clean by the end of the year. The fare to Columbus, not counting what extra there will be for Newark, is $28.67 and the Pullman roughly $5.00. It's an awful lot, isn't it? And now I want some advice. If the agent is successful in putting through a 1 and 1/3 round trip rate over the summer, shall I take it? That would save 2/3 of the return fare, you see, and it seems to me the chances are I will be coming back on the train too since I won't know anyone driving next fall. Talk this over with Daddy and tell what you think is best. Send the money as soon as you can, as I will want to get the ticket out of the way before my big crowd of exams. Much love to everyone, and seeing you all soon,

William
