

Monday A.M.

Dear Mother:-

I am writing this on Dick's typewriter, which seems to skip a space every now and then, so if you find errors more frequent than usual, you will know why. I am glad to say that Butch is back in college. He went to summer school at Cornell, but I have not heard whether he will be able to get credit for it or not. He is still on pro, and unless he gets 2.6 for the next two semesters, he will not be able to graduate. I really don't know why he came back, and neither does he. Just force of habit, I guess. I talked to him on the telephone Saturday, and he told me he has been sick in bed for a couple of days with diarrhea, but is better now. He is not going to the Harvard game, but will go to Cornell to see some of his summer friends.

Last Saturday the applications for the Harvard game had to be in. I found that Dick Muzzy was having Chuck Richards take his sister to the game. Caroline is in Wellesley now. I thought that since he would be driving out that way I might as well take Kate, so I applied for two tickets. Last night I decided to write to ask her to the game, and it occurred to me that I haven't her address. Unless you think I had better not try to take her, please send the address as soon as possible. We will be able to go a round in Dick's car, so the transportation charge will not be much. The tickets cost $3.30.

I'm sure it will be all right to delay the tuition for a while. I am sorry you have to sell a bond. Don't hesitate to sell mine if necessary. I am also running a bit short of funds ^{for} eating, as by the time I get a letter from you I will have been away from home almost a month. As you know, the first month is always the most expensive. For instance, there is the tax book to buy, which sets you back $10.00 right off the bat. In addition, there is a cash outlay of $5.60 for the Harvard tickets, which I have already laid out. To be perfectly frank, I don't see how I have been able to make the money go as far as I have. I guess it is partly due to the fact that in spite of increased food cost I am still able to get along on about a dollar a day. The eating clubs are $9.00 and $9.50 for three meals this year, so naturally I will not be eating in one.

Don't forget, I am still interested in seeing the returns on that straw vote. I show^W_A the article you sent about Prof. West to Dr. Smith; he was quite interested. Please ask Daddy to get an application for an absent voters ballot from the board of elections and send it to me. Be sure and let me know the ward and precinct number, as they are necessary for the ~~the~~ application, and I do not know them.

You used the correct terminology about Tuck School. If Dick were to take a complete course there, he would need to come back next year, but at present he plans to go right into his uncle's candy factory. No doubt it is very pleasant to know what you are going to do for a living, and not have to worry about it.

I hope you will continue to improve in the back, and likewise for Aunt Venie's hand and Aunt Mamie's disposition. I'm glad to hear she got the pension; I hope everything will be all right for the winter. I really must study now, as I haven't done my German and I'm sure to be called on today, as I was not in class Friday. Give my love to all the folks. Keep well; and above all, don't work too hard.

Lovingly yours,
