Monday evening

Dear Mother:-

I have just arrived a few minutes early for my daily stint at the Aegis office, and am taking this chance to use the good old typewriter again. As you have noticed, no doubt, we have a new ribbon; this was bought by the Aegis, but really hasn't done it much good, because no one seems to be able to use this typewriter except me. I need a little brush to clean out the types, though.

Well, the Yale week-end has come and gone. I went down, and although it didn't cost so very much I wish I hadn't gone. I didn't have much fun after the game, and the game was no great joy, I can assure you. Thanks tremendously for sending the money; it arrived in time and I put it to good use. Your second letter arrived today. I couldn't find the clipping you referred to, so if you can find another one it would be fine. I can't imagine who could have put a notice in the paper, as I didn't tell anyone outside the family. I think these things are sometimes carried by the Associated Press, as I have seen lists of P.B.K. ~~xxx~~ elections in the New York Times. I didn't see any for ours, but I haven't had time to read the paper very thoroughly lately.

I certainly am sorry to hear about Mrs. William's condition. I haven't seen Eddy yet, but will attempt to get around tonight. I know he must feel terrible, but of course I will not say anything definite, since you don't know how much he knows. How long do they think she will hang on?

Next week is house parties. I feel like a sucker, having to pay a house tax of $6.00 whether I have a girl up or not. Sometimes

I feel tempted to take on a blind date and let fate do its worse. We play New Hampshire in football. The following week it is Cornell, and after that we finish off our schedule with Princeton. I think we will lose to Princeton by one touchdown.

I forgot to say ~~me~~ above that I received a letter this morning from Mr. Metz of the Newark Trust Co. It consisted of three lines congratulating me on the P.B.K. business. As you say, it apparently means more at home than here. I have not ordered the key yet. I think this year I will go to the concert series with Dick. It is $5.00, and the attractions include Lawrence Tibbett, Jose Itubbi, the Westminster Choir, and something else. Last year I got in with the Players, but of course I can't do that now.

The Aegis is coming along pretty well. I give assignments to the heelers and take care of the Senior statistics, keeping records of pictures taken, etc. The subscriptions come in rather slowly, but better than two years ago. It is naturally hard to get fellows to part with money now for something they don't get until next Spring. The business manager, who is sitting across the office from me typing some of his school work, says we have $180 in the bank, and bills for $250, which is pretty good for the Aegis.

I don't seem to have much more to say. Please let me know how the election comes out at home. Of course the state-wide contests will probably be in the New York papers, but I want to hear about the local elections too. In the forecast in last Sunday's Times, it spent all the space taking about the senatorial race; I think they are afraid to guess the gubernatorial outcome. Love to all,

William
